

Creighton Fund for Clerkships in the Public Interest (CFCPI) Creighton University School of Law

2019 Application Information

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Creighton Fund for Clerkships in the Public Interest (CFCPI) program provides summer funding for qualifying students who work in otherwise unpaid public interest legal jobs. If you are interested in participating in the program you should seek full- or part-time summer employment with a public interest entity doing legal work that furthers the public interest. For purposes of the program, work that furthers the public interest is employment with a nonprofit, governmental, or community-based organization that works to improve the quality of life for community residents, including addressing the needs of low-income individuals or to solve problems related to their needs.

The employing entity must have legal staff who can supervise your work. You are not limited to entities where students have previously received funding; however, to aid students, a list of entities where students have worked in the past is available on reserve in the Career Development Office.

If you find a potential employer willing to offer you a position, you must explain to the employer that you will be applying for CFCPI funding. It is important for you, the applicant, to know in advance of receiving funding whether or not you will be willing to work on a volunteer basis in the event the application is not funded, or only partially funded.

Once you have found a position, you need to discuss with the employer how much work can realistically be provided for you. Some public interest agencies may not be accustomed to utilizing the services of a law student. If that is the case, you must take the initiative to help the employer articulate how it envisions utilizing your services. After you and the employer have arrived at a realistic workload, you should try to translate that as best as possible, with the employer's help, into an estimate of whether you will be working part-time (up to 20 hours a week) or full-time (up to 40 hours a week). You will be required to put this information on your application. The selection committee will allocate the funds to applicants accordingly. In no event will an applicant be able to earn more than is indicated on the application.

Funding is limited and applicants must understand that not everyone who applies will receive funding.

CRITERIA FOR APPLICANTS

- Students must perform unpaid legal work for a nonprofit organization, government agency, or court system. The CFCPI Public Interest Resource Directory is available on reserve in the Career Development Office to aid you in your search for a summer clerkship.
- A licensed attorney must supervise the student.

- Eligible applicants must be Creighton law students in good standing and have a G.P.A. of a 2.00 or higher; otherwise, grades are not a factor in the decision to award funds.
- The clerkship program is designed for currently enrolled students. May, August and December graduates of the year the application is submitted are ineligible.
- Membership in the Public Interest Law Forum (PILF) is required.
- At the time the application is submitted, an applicant must know how many hours per week and for how many weeks he or she intends to work for the employer. Applicants may work either full (40 hours a week) or part-time (20 hours a week). If you are enrolled as a part-time student, you are only eligible for part-time funding. Priority will be given to full-time students.
- Due to workers' compensation issues, we cannot sponsor internships in North Dakota, Ohio, Washington State, or Wyoming. Preference is not necessarily given to a specific geographic location; however, the selection committee may consider geography as a factor.
- Applicants must be citizens of the United States to be eligible for CFCPI funding.
- The CFCPI does not discriminate on the basis of an applicant's age, national origin, color, gender, sexual orientation, creed, disability, or place of residence.
- Because Federal Work Study monies are used to fund this program, students are prohibited from engaging in any lobbying activities while being paid as part of the CFCPI program.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION

- Applicants are judged on their commitment to public service. That commitment may be demonstrated by past work experience, community involvement, or their personal statement.
- The evaluation criteria for all applications are as follows: the nature of the legal work to be provided, the place of employment, number of applicants for a particular place of employment, and the personal statement. The selection committee will have the liberty to reference all other application materials to make final determinations. The personal statement plays a large role in the committee's decision-making process. As such, students are encouraged to submit a well-written personal statement that adequately addresses their commitment to public service focusing on the value their work this summer will bring to the public through this clerkship.
- The selection committee will consider the nature of the legal services to be provided by the student to the agency or organization.
- Multiple applications by Creighton law students to the same clerkship site for the same summer will be a factor in awarding CFCPI awards.
- All awards will be made at the same time; applications submitted earlier will not be given priority.

APPLICATION AND SELECTION PROCESS

- Applications are available in the Career Development Office and on the CDO's website.
- After the application deadline, the applications will be reviewed by a selection committee. The selection committee has the flexibility to weigh the criteria and make the best overall selections among the applicants. Decisions by the selection committee are final. There is no appeals process to review unsuccessful applications.

- Applications must be anonymous; applicants must refrain from using their names on applications (except on Part I: the Identification Form) to assist the selection committee in making unbiased decisions.
- Applications are due by 12:00 noon, Monday, March 18, 2019, in the Career Development Office. Applications submitted after that deadline will NOT be considered. Offers will be extended by early April.
- Applicants may enroll in summer classes; however, you may not borrow any federal student loan money for summer courses. If you do so, you will not qualify for funding under the federal work study guidelines while receiving federal student loan money.

FUNDING SOURCES/ISSUES

- The primary source for the CFCPI program is Federal Work-Study funds.
- Additional money may come from donations to PILF and PILF fundraising activities.
- Funding is available for 11 weeks, which for 2019 will be May 28 -August 9. Due to funding limitations, the CFCPI Committee at its discretion may change the number of weeks for which funding is available. If a change is made, students will be informed at the time of their award. However, students must understand that any work performed outside the 11 week span will not be compensated. Additionally, students are not compensated for any time off or holidays that they choose to take during the 11 week funding period.
- FWS provides full-time employment of 40 hours per week. Both Memorial Day and July 4th will not be compensated; no more than 32 hours are permitted for the two holiday weeks.
